1. For WindowSystem Class we created a SimpleWindow and then added it to the WindowSystem because wanted to make it more generic so that if we can make window of any shape by just calling the add method.
2. In the WindowManager class we made the dressing as part of the window because if the window needs to be made at (0,0) then the title should also be visible as surrounding it with the dressing would make the title bar hidden if window is made at 0,0.

As for the expert question, we implemented the window re-ordering, although we add simple window border.
